

The Kellogg-Recanati Honor Code

All students enrolled in the course offered by the Kellogg-Recanati International Executive MBA Program agree to abide by the Kellogg Honor Code.

The Kellogg-Recanati International Executive MBA community regards honesty and integrity as qualities essential to the practice and profession of management. The purpose of the Kellogg Honor Code is to promote these qualities so that each student can fully develop his or her individual potential. Upon admission, each student makes an agreement with his or her fellow students to abide by the Kellogg Honor Code. Students who violate the Kellogg Honor Code violate this agreement and must accept the sanction imposed by the Kellogg-Recanati Program.

The Kellogg Honor Code requires that each student acts with integrity in all program activities and that each student holds his or her peers to the same standard. By not tolerating lapses in honesty and integrity, the Kellogg-Recanati community affirms the importance of these values.

The intent of the Kellogg Honor Code is to express the ethical standards of the Kellogg community. It does not attempt to be a list of rules and sanctions.

The Kellogg Honor Code governs student conduct pertaining to all academic and extracurricular activities associated with the Program.

Each student agrees:

1. Not to seek an unfair advantage over other students, including but not limited to giving or receiving unauthorized aid during completion of academic requirements.
2. To truthfully represent fact and self at all times.
3. To respect the property and personal rights of all members of the Kellogg-Recanati Community and of the Kellogg global community.
4. To uphold the Kellogg Honor Code by reporting all material violations and by fully cooperating with any Honor Code proceedings.

All Kellogg-Recanati students are expected to adhere to all policies and requirements of the program and to abide by all applicable laws and regulations.

If admitted, I agree to uphold the Kellogg Honor Code                      Yes / No

The Kellogg-Recanati program doesn't find it possible to admit all applicants who meet its entrance requirements. The program, therefore, reserves the right to refuse admission to any applicant. The program also reserves the right to require the withdrawal of any student whose condition endangers his or her own health or the health of other students or precludes him or her from doing the required work. In exceptional circumstances, the program reserves the right, in its sole discretion, to waive any documentation normally required for admission. It also reserves the right to admit or deny a student admission whenever it believes that it has sufficient evidence for the decision.

I certify that all statements, including dates and titles of employment, made in this application for admission to the Kellogg-Recanati International Executive MBA program are correct, and my responses are my own. I authorize Kellogg to verify and all information contained herein, including but not limited to dates and terms of employment, academic work and awards, and extracurricular activities.
