

We are happy to announce our first joint scholarship for South African students, who are planning to come to Israel and get their MBA degree along with the volunteer work.

The scholarship is provided by Telfed, home away from home for all Southern African Jewish students in Israel and Sofaer Global MBA, the flagship one-year full-time MBA program in English of the Coller School of Management at Tel Aviv University.

The SASI programme (Southern Africans Study in Israel) is a joint initiative between Telfed, the Eric and Sheila Samson Foundation, donors, and leading Israeli universities and academic institutions.

SASI social volunteering programme based on financial need, affords a unique opportunity to experience Israel and give back to Israeli society.

WHO CAN APPLY?

Southern African citizens of Jewish lineage according to the 'Law of Return', with a recognised matric and university pass certificate.

The SASI scholarship is based on financial need.

It is not compulsory to make Aliyah in order to participate in the SASI programme.
